The Legislature

The debate on the Speech from the throne has occupied practically the whole time during the first week of the session, only a few routine matters being disposed of.

In recent years some outcry has been raised against the "waste" of time so employed. Some legislators attempted to shorten the debate, notably in Saskatchewan, but without the least result.

Historically, the debate was used to demonstrate Parliament's independence of the king. Each session, His Majesty was accustomed to send certain requests to his lawmakers. They listened respectfully but before getting down to the king's business they discussed adverse matters of importance to the people.

It is true that the Legislature no longer fears the domination of the king, but another power is now encroaching on its functions. Formerly legislation was initiated in Parliament and given to the Executive to administer. But more and more the Executive has come to propose cut-and-dried legislation which the Legislature merely ratifies. The debate on the address gives the backbencher his chance to make a more positive contribution to the government of the country. For a week he has a mind of his own and is more than a mere voting machine.

There are styles in speeches from the throne according to the political strategy of the party in power. The Liberals from 1905 to 1921 preferred a brief, terse statement which referred to as much proposed legislation as possible but which was non-committal about why and how. Mr. Brownlee's method is evidently to refer only to main lines of legislation. But these matters he treats in the king's speech, with considerable detail and the members are given a better idea of the government policy.

This type leaves certain questions and it is for some of omission that the government is attacked. The Labour member for Edmonton, Chris Paterson seized upon such an opening in this demand for positive action on the question of unemployment.

The problem is a national one for if one section does anything the unemployed flock thicker. A major cause of unemployment is the unrestricted immigration, a federal matter and due to the federal policy. The conditions in the mining towns are serious because of over-development. Alberta's mines are organized for a peak demand for a short period each year. He suggested a survey of conditions each fall and some system of national or international protection unemployment insurance.

The speech of the new Conservative leader, D. M. Duggan, was of interest as a statement of party policy. Mr. Duggan emphasized the main points: highways and tax reduction. He advocated an expenditure of $25,000,000 on highways in the next five years, the revenue from gasoline taxes and licenses to be employed against the expenditure. At the same time the removal of the supplementary revenue tax, ($1,166,900 in 1929, would return a part of the surplus to the people. (This suggestion should gladden the hearts of municipal authorities in Alberta.) He touched on other points: he is generally in agreement on the Natural Resources settlement but feels that some feature are not in the best interests of the people; he favors the retention of the local school board for administration; and he believes that power is the great problem to be dealt with at present.

Mr. Hoadley replied, gently chiding Mr. Duggan for his inconsistency in asking great expenditure and at the same time demanding reduction in taxes.

In taxation and public debt. Mr. Shaw, leader of the Liberals made his keynote speech on Wednesday. He attacked the Farmer party because of the great increase in taxation and debt since 1921. He was not inclined to give all the credit for the resources settlement to Mr. Brownlee and company; the Liberal government at Ottawa had done its share.

Mr. Shaw attacked the government on its weak policy in education. He demanded a Civil Service Act and the upward revision of salaries of civil servants.

The Liberal leader ended his speech by advising Mr. Speaker that he now resigned as leader of the Liberal party though he would continue as House Leader during the present session. The announcement caused no emotion as had been unofficially known before. Mr. Brownlee rose immediately after Mr. Shaw to reply to the criticisms of the opposition leaders. He showed the impossibility of reducing taxation at the present time especially when increased expenditure was demanded. Point by point he answered his opponents, stating the government position.

Outstanding among a number of thoughtful speeches was that of Mr. Hector Lang (Lib.), Medicine Hat on the Baker School Bill. Mr. Lang will probably be the leading critic on education this session as he was last session. The rural schools must be improved but this can best be done by increased supervision and by a provincial salary schedule. He is in favor of tax equalization but Baker Bill gives too much power to the Department of Education.

The member for High River (Mr. Sam Brown) gave the paragraphs of the city's petition for a change to make merry when he suggested that provision should be made to prevent oil companies from erecting derricks in the farmer's front yard. Perhaps there is more to the request than the clever boys think.

In the meantime, the probable election is not being forgotten. An executive meeting of the Liberals has taken preliminary steps to call a Provincial Convention to choose a successor to Mr. Shaw. Since Mr. G. H. Webster was present, the wise ones say that he will be the next leader.

The Wheat Pool may be an issue, but the united stand of the three Western premiers in guaranteeing the 15 p.c. margin will undoubtedly strengthen Mr. Brownlee's position. What part of the return of the natural resources may play is problematical. It is to be hoped that the sectarian issue so bitter when the province was divided (1905) will not be revived at this time.

Some opposition to an early election has been heard among the U.F.A. members. Attention has been called to the plank in the U.F.A. platform (1921) which reads: "The Farmer Government to carry on for the full term of the Legislature."

Though individual members may fear for their seats it is hardly probable that the government can be overturned. The best the opposition can hope for is to reduce the U.F.A. majority.

The School Trustees are in Session in Calgary. Mr. Baker appeared and defended his new bill. The opposition is not so great apparently as that of the last year but the Trustees are not yet ready to give up the powers of the local school boards.

The "Prohibitionists" have just concluded a successful convention in Edmonton. For some time now the very vigorous street car advertising campaign. To their deporation, Mr. Brownlee said that though there is a dry majority in the legislature, prohibition legislation cannot be passed till the public opinion crystallizes in favor of it. He suggested that a campaign of education would be effective in restricting the traffic.

The final report on Alberta's railways for the first six months of 1929 showed considerable improvement.

LACOMBE JUVENILES DEFEATED BY CAMROSE

The Lacombe Juveniles resplendent in their new uniforms played at Camrose on Saturday night last, and were edged out by a one goal margin, but it was a good game and the boys played their hardest and when one considers the lateness of the hour that the game started, and the long throeome train trip, they will certainly excuse the Juvenile Packers for allowing the Camrose outfit to get that extra counter. However the series was tied up, with both teams having scored four goals in the two games. They were beaten, but without hesitation we will still say, "No team in the Juvenile Group, in Alberta, can beat the locals by more than one goal."

The game at Camrose was not just as clean as we would like to have seen it, but heavy ice was doubtless to blame for most of the tripping. Cut out the dirty work and let it be said by all the spectators that "The Lacombe Juveniles are the cleanest hockeyists in Alberta, besides being the best."

Bruce Tees scored the first goal at Camrose in the first period. Hansen scored the second for Camrose to tie the count 1-1.

In the second, Trot again scored on a pass from Tees, and Hardy tied the game to end the second session. Score 2-2.

GOD SAVE THE KING

LACOMBE SENIORS SHUT INNISFAUL OUT OF PROVINCIAL PLAYOFF

Lacombe Seniors defeated Innisfaul 12 to 8 in a two game elimination series. In the first game, played at Lacombe arena, Lacombe beat Innisfaul 6 to 1. This game was very one sided, as the score indicates, and Lacombe simply played them off their feet. In the second game, played at Innisfaul, the score ended 7 to 5 for the locals. The game at Innisfaul was a "battling royal" their being no less than five fistic encounters, occurring at all stages of the game, even between periods. Innisfaul in endeavoring to equalize the 5 goal margin held by Lacombe threw discretion to the winds in their endeavor to score a few goals—thus the number of fights.

The referee, although he was paid a dollar to referee, overlooked too much rough stuff in the initial part of the game, and the game simply got out of his control. Though the score was close this game, Lacombe had a much greater edge on the play.

JUVENILES CAPTURE GAME FROM RED DEER 3 TO 1

The Lacombe Juveniles again showed some hundred and fifty fans that they had the class, when they met the Red Deer juveniles here on Tuesday, winning their game by a 3 to 1 score.

The locals were somewhat listless, owing to their trip to Camrose, causing them to lose two, night's sleep and did not play their best. However, in fact it was undoubtedly the "lowest game played by them this season. Tees scored the opening counter in the first period assisted by Trot, and Red Deer made his first save. Trot made the first counter on a pass from Tees, and then Burney scored for Red Deer, only to be followed by Tees scoring the final tally, a goal to end the period. Lacombe 3, Red Deer 1. The locals were devoid of scores, though time after time the locals broke through only to fall down around the nets.

DE SOTO STRAIGHT EIGHT AN ALL-AROUND FINISHED PERFORMER
Expresses the Spirit of the Times In All Departments of Performance
The modern motor car must be a finished, polished, all-around performer if it is to satisfy the exacting demands of the present generation of motorists. There has never been a time when mechanical appliances of all description—for the office, for the home, for recreation, for business—have received such widespread and such master-of-fast acceptance, nor have public expectations in this regard ever been so high. An age that produced Robot is bound to require much more from an automobile.

car for women drivers, entailing very little physical effort for its guidance. If a driver is to get comfortably through heavy traffic, he must have a car that accelerates and decelerates rapidly. With all the traffic moving faster everywhere, the new DeSoto Straight Eight is a brilliant performer. Its powerful, flexible, smooth-running engine picks up with amazing rapidity and absence of effort. It has plenty of speed for the highway, and in hill-climbing it outperforms eight costing twice as much.

As in the DeSoto Six, the new Eight creation is equipped with self-equalizing, hydraulic, internal-expanding four-wheel brakes. They bring the car to an easy, yet positive stop on all four wheels, like a steel grip within a velvet glove. The brake ratio in the Straight Eight is 6 to 1, producing a perfectly balanced powerful braking action.

These fine engine qualities produce a remarkably smooth-running car. Combined with this smoothness is a high degree of flexibility, obtained from the perfectly balanced eight-cylinder design. In traffic, for instance, the new DeSoto Straight Eight imposes a minimum of strain and effort upon the driver, owing to the ability of the engine to respond to the slightest touch upon the accelerator.

Easy steering has been brought to a high degree of perfection. The pressure of a single finger against a spoke of the steering wheel is sufficient to keep the car true to a straight line, or turn it to right or left. This easy steering makes parking against a curb or in a garage a simple matter. It also makes the DeSoto Straight Eight the ideal

Wheat Marketing

TO THE EDITOR—

As every farmer honestly expects to receive a fair price for his wheat, kindly allow me space to reply in the same spirit.

Suppose we had a compulsory pool and this pool carried over a surplus of 100,000,000 bushels instead of 50,000,000. Would it not mean that much more of the world's wheat requirement would have been drawn from "other countries" and less from Canada? Also, since the non-pool farmer, (supposedly) sent his wheat into the export stream, did he not retard the flow of wheat from "other countries" into Europe and thus help to reduce Canada's surplus?

Our Canadian problem is not how to dispose of surpluses but how to avoid having these surpluses. A surplus already built up in Canada tends to lower prices in Canada, to increase foreign production and foreign export. Also, nothing short of a world famine would furnish the means for its profitable disposal. By building up a surplus because of lower prices in Canada and enhance values for foreign competition during the building up process.

Any country able to engage successfully in wheat production depends upon four chief factors:

- (a) Sufficient, and preferably unlimited acreage.
- (b) Cost of production around which is entwined the standard of living of that country.
- (c) Transportation cost from farm to consumer.
- (d) Export or import tariffs.

Before the war Canada could not compete successfully with Russia in the export of wheat to Britain on account of Russia's lower production and transportation costs, lower standard of living and a commercial treaty (1910-1917) with Britain, Turkey entry into the war ended this treaty. The Dardanelles expedition followed. To open her water route to Russian wheat. This expedition failed and its failure sent prices higher in Canada and led to the Canadian Wheat Board in order to secure supplies of wheat from Canada, for the Allies. The German submarine having sunk one-third of Allied ships, destroyed the market for the Argentine and created an excellent market for Canada on account of its greater proximity to Britain.

After the war the Argentine continued to take Russia's place as an exporter of wheat, until now this comparatively new country occupies the key position with regard to world prices of wheat, on account of her low cost of production, her low cost of transportation and her low rate of exchange and power to increase acreage.

The higher the standard of living in the importing country and the lower in the exporting country the more profitable it is for the exporter to do business, for a high standard of living usually means greater purchasing power and less selling power.

Exchange rates help an exporting country if her currency is below par. In 1928 the Canadian farmer would not trade a bushel of wheat for a bushel of German marks and at about that time trade with France meant a loss of 40 p.c. in the exchange values for a farmer in Canada.

Import thrills in France and Germany and subsidized agriculture in these countries are helping to reduce the price of wheat for the Canadian farmer and the price of wheat must continue to be low while so much additional acreage is added all over the world. The remedy appears to be a system of Inter-Empire tariffs to protect the British market for the wheat raising units in the Empire.

"Protection" is, of course, something which the average farmer like the British consumer, does not believe in, and protective tariffs contain the germs of war, just as do battleships.

In the meantime Canada's surplus is still climbing and there is a possibility that the Argentine will be able to sell this year's crop before Canada disposes of last year's. What is to be done?

(a) Canada should support a policy of Inter or Intra or Infra-Empire trade with protective tariffs.

(b) The "Canadian" progressive should become protectionists in a within-the-Empire sense.

(c) Canada should seek the friendship of the importing countries (Britain) and not seek to create hostility in trade. In a very few years Canada can be dispensed with in the wheat trade, though we hope this will not happen.

(d) By giving the British importer all the wheat he wants, when he wants it, we can largely exclude the Argentine and if the price is too low for such sales, the task can be carried by the Winnipeg or Liverpool Grain Exchanges. This is what the National Grain Corporation in the U.S.A. considers doing. In this way the Canadian surplus will disappear out of "visible supply" and the Argentine "visible" will increase. Curtailment of acreage will follow in the country which can't keep up the pace at prevailing prices.

This is another view of the market situation resulting from close study of the subject for a period of years.

D. MACVOUDIGT,
Red Deer, Alberta.

Immigration

There is much that is encouraging in figures just published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics regarding immigration to Canada last year; much also that gives point to the contention of those who believe that immigration policies, if they are not wholly to blame for the unemployment situation are not unrelated to it. The figures show that last year 145,978 people came to Canada, the highest since 1914 when the figure was 284,878, though not greatly above the average of post-war years. At the same time, it should be noted that the net loss of population to the United States was practically nil—55 to be exact—no doubt, because prospective emigrants from Canada were not encouraged by the state of the labor market to the south.

The proportion of British settlers in the total movement to the Dominion last year was larger than it has been. Roughly speaking, the 1929 influx was made up as follows: British 41 per cent; American 18 per cent; Northwestern European, 18 per cent; and other European, 23 per cent. British, American and Western European immigrants were thus in a majority of more than three to one over people from the so-called "non-preferred" countries. This should be reassuring to those who have feared that the special character of the Canadian people is in danger of dilution. Seventy-seven out of every hundred newcomers last year were either from Britain, the United States, or that part of Europe including Holland, German and the Scandinavian countries.

The proportion of the several elements in 1928 immigration was as follows: British, 38 per cent; American, 18 per cent; Northwestern European, 18 per cent; and other European, 26 per cent. Two significant changes occurred last year. The movement from the American union and from "preferred" countries remained about the same, but British immigration grew in volume, while immigrants from Central and Eastern Europe were fewer. The policy of the Dominion has been revised in the light of experience, but without any quota legislation.

MR. SHAW'S RETIREMENT

Mr. Shaw's retirement from the Liberal leadership in the Alberta Legislature comes to us much like a bolt from the blue. No doubt he had taken some of his friends into confidence at some time, but to most of us, and especially to his party, his service on the floor of the House of Commons of his intention to retire after the present session was sudden and abrupt. It came at the end of his valuable contribution to the debate on the speech from the throne. He had discussed almost the whole range of political government. He had touched upon public finance and laid the charge of excessive taxation. He had urged a more aggressive and more general highway policy. He had criticized the Government while their views and his diverged. He had praised them where he felt praise was due. Then he began his peroration—"There is one matter, somewhat personal in character." As honorable members know, I am engaged for a livelihood in the practice of law. . . . His colleagues and the galleries, even without any preparation than this, must have sensed what was coming. It was unnecessary for him to assure the House that his leadership had been "a happy and pleasant experience," and that his relinquishment had not been precipitated by any friction within the party. The unanimous wish which Alberta Liberals have consented to the leadership of "Joe" Shaw is well known as also is the devotion and the enthusiasm he has brought to bear not only on his party's politics, but on the greater question of public affairs; for he has never been bitterly partisan, something of which his latest speech in the Legislature is evidence. It is only the turning of another page in the chapter of Canadian history which tells of leaders lost because the wheels of public life were inadequate to their needs—because they "have to make a living," as Lord Birkenhead said recently of his own action, except, then, Stevens from federal affairs; McGillivray from the Conservative leadership of Alberta; and now, almost in McGillivray's footsteps, Shaw.

ALBERTA'S MOUTH HEALTH CRUSADE

The important bearing that the condition of the teeth has upon the general health of the individual is to be brought to the attention of the people of this province in a forceful way in a sixty-day campaign beginning February 17th. In every part of Alberta addresses will be given, stories told, films and lantern slides, shows and illustrated pamphlets distributed, all teaching the great lessons that sickness and suffering and even death may be caused by the neglect of the teeth. In this work all the philanthropic and service organizations of the community are expected to co-operate. Churches and schools and clubs will play a particularly prominent part. The public will be shown how they may prevent the decay of teeth by eating the right kind of food, balancing the diet, and brushing the teeth in a regular and systematic way. They will be informed about the ills that affect the whole body because of decayed teeth and about the best measures to be taken to deal with such conditions.

Now will the campaign be confined to educational work. The mouths of all the children in the schools will be inspected in which each every child will put in two days of his time without charge. The campaign is being put on by the Canadian Dental Hygiene Council, a nation-wide organization con-posed of public spirited persons of all classes, which will work through the Alberta Dental Association, with the active co-operation of the Provincial Departments of Health and Education. For the purpose of the campaign the province will be divided into twenty-two districts each with its own chairman and local campaign organization. Every citizen in Alberta is in one of these twenty-two districts and has an opportunity to help. The growing generation should be healthier than the one that preceded it because of this dental crusade; and a lot of misery on the part of adults due to lack of knowledge and care of the teeth should be obviated.

CENTRE VALLEY W.I.

The Centre Valley Women's Institute held their regular monthly meeting at Chapel School Saturday, February 14. This meeting was in the nature of a social affair, husbands and friends in the community to the number of one hundred being in attendance. The president, Mrs. Fred Ellsworth called the meeting to order and after giving everyone present a very hearty welcome stated that any business of the Institute would be dealt with briefly as a great treat, an address by Mr. Wm. Irvine, M.P., was to be given. Accordingly the roll call was read, also the correspondence, one item being a letter of thanks for a twenty-five dollar contribution to the X-ray fund for the Bentley hospital, and then the meeting was turned over to Mr. Irvine. Mr. Irvine gave a very witty and instructive address on the development of the different functions of society and stressed the lack and need of intelligent co-operation amongst the farmers. Owing to lack of time his speech had to be cut short. However everyone is looking forward to his completion in the near future. A real W.I. luncheon was served at the conclusion of the speech to which, not only the ladies, but Mr. and Mrs. Loren Craig then gave the crowd an invitation to their new home for a home warming. A most delightful time was had playing cards, and dancing to the radio. Everyone present was unanimous in their praise of the splendid home. Congratulations Nellie and Loren.

WHY SHOULD BIRTHS BE REGISTERED?

There is a law in every province which requires the registration of births, and as a rule, the partial responsibility for such registration rests upon the parent. Whether or not the parents are held responsible by law, they should see that the provincial requirements are met because for the following reasons, it is in the interests of the new-born child that the birth be registered. It is through the registration of births and deaths that a check is kept upon health conditions. The cause of deaths, the undue prevalence of disease, the results of health work can only be ascertained from such figures. The public health organization depends upon the statistics and as the efficiency is a matter of importance to each individual, in that protection from disease and the attainment of health depend largely upon this public service, each citizen should do his part in seeing that such necessary reports as are required by law are made to the proper authorities.

If the child's birth is not registered he may be hampered in adult life, because birth certificates are now demanded for:

- i. Proof of citizenship, in order to have the right to vote, to obtain a passport for travelling outside the country;
- ii. Proof of age: this is required by insurance companies before claims can be settled; as evidence of a child's having reached school age; as evidence of age where work certificates are required, or to prove that age when work certificate is required has been passed; to prove age for enlistment in the army; to prove age in connection with marriage;

3. Establishment of identity and parentage; to prove right to an inheritance.

Many more reasons might be given, such as age for a motor driver's licence, and age for old age pension, but enough have been mentioned to establish clearly that from the standpoint of both the community and the individual, birth registration should never be neglected. A moral and legal registration rests upon parents to see that the birth of their child is properly registered.

payroll of the Canadian Pacific was $267,000, its daily disbursement for material and supplies was $220,000 and its daily tax bill $21,000. These figures indicated the contribution to day by day business and applying the same basis to the total expenditure of all railways in Canada last year developed the fact that the total sum disbursed exceeded $500,000,000, or a little more than $50 for every man, woman and child in the country.

BOLSTERING UP THE MARKET
(The Bulletin)

The Government of the three prairie provinces have "got under" the market in order to prevent a crash in wheat prices.

The action is unusual, and a technical violation of the principle that the public credit should not be involved in speculative operations.

But the circumstances are also unusual, and when these are taken into account, and the consequences of a wheat crash are gauged, there is not likely to be much fault found with even this kind of emergency action to stabilize the situation.

The Wheat Pool has been mainly responsible for holding the bulk of last season's crop off the market. The Pool made an initial payment of $1.00 a bushel to the growers who delivered their wheat to it. Whether the growers get anything more depends upon the ultimate selling price.

The banks advanced $1.00 per bushel paid to the growers on delivery. The Pool's arrangement with the banks is that the wheat held by the Pool must always be worth fifteen per cent. more than the amount advanced by the banks.

Wheat prices have been tending downward. If they went far enough this fifteen per cent. margin would disappear. The Pool then would be forced to sell at what prices it could get. If Pool wheat were dumped under pressure of a decline in price, the prices would be still further depressed, and the market might "go all to pieces."

What that would mean to the wheat growers, and to business interests of all kinds in all parts of Canada, does not need to be elaborated. The effect would be nothing short of a nationwide catastrophe.

To avert this, the three Governments have agreed to guarantee the fifteen per cent margin of security required by the banks, should the value of the wheat held by the Pool fall to maintain this margin.

This liability is contingent only, and is assumed as a measure of precaution. Before the public credit would be actively involved, the Pool wheat would have to be sold at an average price basic less than $1.00 per bushel. That is not at all likely to occur, and is much less likely to occur than if the guarantee had not been given.

Aberdeen-Angus Sale at Lacombe

February 26, 1930

The Alberta Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association will hold its first Annual Auction Sale of pure-bred breeding cattle at the Exhibition Grounds, Lacombe, on Wednesday, February 26, 1930. The offering consists of 40 head of females and one outstanding herd sire consigned by some of the leading breeders of Aberdeen-Angus cattle in Alberta.

The entire offering consists of young, well bred cattle of popular blood lines and should attract the attention of breeders of Aberdeen-Angus cattle and prospective breeders from a wide territory.

The blood of such bulls as Earl Marshall, who has sired more International Grand Champions and Reserve Grand Champions than any bull of any breed. Prisoners and Barbarian C.B. 5th, grandsons of the International Grand Champion, Oakville Quiet Lad, Pride 2nd of Fage, an outstanding sire of prize winners, as well as other well known blood lines are represented in this sale.

With the rising prices and bright future for beef cattle, this is an ideal time to found a pure-bred herd or improve your present herd. Prices are still reasonable and by buying some of the outstanding females offered in this sale, the farmer or breeder will certainly be building for the future. If you are in need of a high class herd bull or a few exceptionally good young females, you will find the Lacombe sale an excellent place to make a selection.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Come. You will enjoy it.

GREAT BRITAIN AND STATES

IN ACCORD
Substantial progress has been achieved at the London naval conference by the offer of the United States to accept terms which virtually establish parity between that country and Great Britain. Whatever else may be accomplished a definite agreement between the two largest naval powers seems to be assured. The plan proposed by the American delegation is comprehensive one, embracing every class of war vessel. A proposal has been made to Japan agreeing to the continuance of the 5-5-3 ratio established at the Washington conference.

The United States proposals are of the utmost importance, because they advocate actual disarmament. There is to be a reduction in the number of fighting vessels, not a mere postponement of replacements all round. Concerning battle ships, equalization between Great Britain and the United States is proposed for 1931 instead of waiting until 1942. This would be brought about by Britain strapping five capital ships and the United States three, leaving each with fifteen. Practical equality in cruiser tonnage is proposed, each country to maintain large or small cruisers according to its needs. Either nation can change the ratio between large and small cruisers, but the total tonnage is not to be exceeded.

It has become apparent that the inspiration of the movement to bring British and American views on naval matters into harmony dates back to the eventual meetings between the British Prime Minister and President Hoover. From those private conferences there sprang the conviction that a friendly understanding between the two peoples was not only desirable but essential to world peace. Absolute confidence in each other's integrity and sincerity was the first requisite in putting an end to the naval rivalry which might at any time assume dangerous proportions. Instead of leadership in naval construction, they propose to lead the other nations into the path of permanent peace.

Acceptance of the United States offer by Great Britain and Japan will not end the work of the naval conference, highly important as it is. There is still much to do in bringing about a lasting agreement between France and Italy. The Mediterranean problem has to be solved and this is an objective of major importance to Great Britain. Any scheme of disarmament to be permanently successful must include all five powers. It has been brought much nearer realization by the example set by the two largest powers.
